PREFATORY NOTE.

Revenue, 1859-63.

MANY of these papers are of a routine nature largely references from and to the Financial Commissioner and are not of any very great interest.

Taxation is extended during this period, a tax on trades being introduced and also the Income-Tax. The latter appears to have been almost as popular then as it is now and there are many petitions against paying it and complaints against errors in assessment, etc.

In 1861-62 a very severe famine visited the country and Punjab suffered in common with other Provinces, particularly some of the Cis-Sutlej Districts. Very large sums of money were raised by public subscription, supplemented by Government grants, for the relief of the sufferers. In this connection there is an interesting letter from the then Lord Mayor of London, forwarding a cheque for £1,000 and mentioning that the total amount raised in London towards the Famine Fund had reached £1,08,000. The Fund in the Punjab was finally closed in 1863 when a balance of 3¼ lakhs was made over to the Government of India.

In 1862-63 the province was visited by swarms of locusts which did much damage, and energetic measures had to be taken for their destruction.

The American Civil War was raging at the time and the consequent stoppage of the American cotton trade caused a big impetus in the cultivation of Indian cotton, Government lending active aid by the importation of seed, cotton presses, etc.

The Kangra Valley tea plantations became of importance during this period and there were also experiments in the cultivation of flax and indigo, the latter not very successful.

A number of the papers deal with the Customs Department which was then under the Punjab Government, the old preventive line in the South of the province being then in active operations. The Assistant Patrols appear to have been a rather rough crowd—about as unruly as the officers of the old Indus Flotilla—and there are frequent cases of dismissals and punishments.

Included in this series is a very interesting report on the Lahore Agri-Horticultural Society. This was started in 1851 and at first controlled two gardens—the so called Soldiers garden—near the mausoleum of Data Ganj Bakhsh—and another garden at Badami Bagh. In 1863 these were given up and the Society moved to its present site.

It is interesting to note that the resultant reduction in the rent roll of Mozang was only Rs. 83.

Keeper of the Records of the Government of the Punjab.

Ditto	In reply returns the original coresspondence received with the preceding remarks that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor regards with much satisfaction his consideration of this subject that he has long felt that to a Foreign Government having no reliable medium of communication with the people, the existence of leading yeomen, such as were found in most districts of the Punjab, was an advantage carefully to be maintained, that His Honour believes that in all districts in which the revised settlement has been effected, Inams in land or money have been upheld in favour of some of the most notable and zealous of the Chaudhries and that Lieutenant-Governor desires to see these grouped in one view and suggest that Financial Commissioner will extend the enquiry which has been authorized in the Amritsar Division to all the others including the whole Punjab and its dependencies in his proposed recommendations. Observes with surprise that the Inams have not been regularly paid in the Lahore District and calls particular attention to this neglect. Doubts the expediency of making the Inams hereditary and considers that the Chaudhries should be selected for their zeal and influence and that some power of selection should be vested in the local officers subject to approval of superior authority.

Statement of the outstanding balances of the Hasli Canal collections.	In reply remarks that it does not appear why the claims to exemption from canal tax in the Amritsar District were not regularly investigated and reported on like those of the Gurdaspur District and that the register of the latter is in his office and will show the principles sanctioned by the Government of India for the decision of such claims. In reply expresses the regret of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor that the Annual Takavi Report now submitted exhibiting as it does much inefficiency and irregularity in the fiscal administration of the Sialkot District, should have remained in his office for eleven months, without being received and disposed of. Remarks that it is evident that money has been advanced without judgment, has in some case, not been expressed on the object for which it was nominally granted and that this mis-management has been concealed from the higher Authorities by omission to furnish the prescribed reports. States that His Honour holds that such things cannot be without great neglect on the part of the Deputy Commissioner, nor can the Commissioner under whose supervision these irregularities passed unnoticed, be acquitted of blame and that they must bear the responsibility of not having ascertained and exposed the short comings of their subordinates. Without adverting to particular cases states that it appears to the Lieutenant-Govenor that it is wiser to adhere to those general terms in which our legislation on these varied rights has heretofore been conceived,—vide page 63 paragraph 13 of the Punjab Civil Code, that in disputes the first thing is to refer to the settlement record prepared on the spot, with the express purpose of defining and recording the diversified types of existing rights and of obviating the necessity for an undiscriminating legislation, which could not be adopted to the varieties of the case that wherever the rights of cultivators have not been recorded, the record is obviously defective, and that disputes must then be judicially settled according to the evidence procurable, and the result recorded for furture guidance.

	No. 1122, dated 24th September 1859. From—The Secretary to Government, Punjab. To—The Financial Commissioner, Punjab	Ditto	In reply observes that Financial Commissioner considers that under the terms laid down in the circular referred to, land other than that in which it is proposed to plant a grove and owned by parties different from the planters cannot be granted—but states that the circular in question affords no foundation for this opinion and that it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that the text will not admit of such a construction. Remarks that what is granted is not occupation of land nor the proprietary right but the Government Revenue—the alienation of which is in no way impeded by the fact of the planter of the grove and not being proprietor or cultivator—that the object of Government is to remunerate the planter for his trouble and expense and that it does this at its own cost and by an assignment of its own Revenue. Adds that if the Vazir seeks to occupy the land or to become proprietor, this is a district affair with which Government has nothing to do and which must be left to the parties themselves to arrange.
